History of Our Schools

It is quite appropriate that we make mention of the history of our schools in this number of the Palladium, for it is just one hundred years since the first school was established in this community. We mortals are inclined to boast of our colonial ancestry, if we can persuade someone to listen to us, and so it is easy to imagine that our present fine High School building, with all its modern improvements, is quite pleased to have us publish the fact that the first three names on its family tree were those of three log school houses. To tell the truth, we are not sure of their names but we do know where they stood—which is more than can be said of some peoples' ancestors.

The first school house was built in 1826, three miles east of Northville on the William Bartow farm. Then three years later two other log school houses came into existence; one situated where Mr. George B. Yerkes' residence now stands and another on the corner of the Taft farm on the Base Line road. Can you imagine how the sturdy little schoolhouses looked, built of logs taken from the clearing in which they stood, logs hewn square on the inside by the axes of interested fathers, while mud plastered the walls to keep out the cold? A rough broken road straggled by and wolves and deer occasionally strayed out of the surrounding forest.

Next in direct line, as the geneologists say, was the cobblestone schoolhouse built directly back of the stone blacksmith shop on Main street. The old blacksmith shop, which used to minister to faithful farm horses and high spirited "drivers", now covers noisy man-made machines and the old stone schoolhouse was sold in 1850 for sixty-seven dollars! Not very inspiring endings for fine useful lives, and yet the thought of the strong men who, with their own hands built those log and stone houses, that their children might grow into intelligent citizens, makes the completeness and comfort of our modern building seem rather a disturbing thing. We cannot avoid wondering whether we are as much better than the "old settlers" as our schools are better than theirs.

During these years there were a number of private schools located in different parts of the little village, and a still more imposing place of learning, called an Academy and conducted by a Mr. Cochran, in the present home of Mr. and Mrs. John Tinham.

Still aspiring to higher things, our school now left the little squat stone house to inhabit a fine house with a steeple. This building which now holds our Ladies' Library was built about 1845 for use as a church, but was sold to the school district four years later. Perhaps this would be an opportune time to voice a plea for the preservation of this landmark, now almost one hundred years old. Its quaint lines and its years of service give a distinction all its own, and were the colonial building located in New England, instead of in Michigan, there would be no doubt of the care with which it would be preserved. A number of our older citizens still quake at the thought of Gustavus Adolphus Brown, who was one of the earlier teachers in this building. He, in spite of his effeminate name, was a stern gentleman who swayed a wicked ferule and did not hesitate to drag big boys by their collars, across the tops of the desks should occasion demand.

But logs, or stoves, or clapboards would not hold our growing school; so in 1865, a brick building upon the present location was completed and occupied. The proud name of Union High School was bestowed upon this organization and Prof. William A. Osband was made the first principal. Prof. Osband was an accomplished gentleman and the requirements of the school at that time were very high. Greek, Latin, French and German were all taught though there were but four teachers in the High School and over one hundred pupils.

Since that time twenty-two other gentlemen have reigned successively and successfully over our school, each adding to the curriculum the new branches which the times and increased number of pupils demanded. Methods of teaching and of discipline have completely changed during the years, now every effort is used to make the acquiring of knowledge an attractive and entertaining pursuit, while fifty years ago those who would not learn were compelled to do so. Now a Superintendent is chosen for his modern ideas and administrative ability, then the head of the school must not only be proficient in Latin and Greek but must also be physically able to enforce the law should the healthy young farmers choose to disobey. Now we are told that we must spare the rod or spoil the child, yet many of the most respectable citizens of our town can testify to receiving, in their youth, vigorous knock-out blows from athletic principals, and some few to a hurried descent of the High School stairway, impelled by an angry boot.

The first class graduated from this brick building in 1869 and consisted of one young woman, Alice Beal by name. Miss Beal later became a teacher in the school and there met and married the Principal, Mr. Collins.

The growing institution again overflowed its bounds and in 1907 a new brick building was added near-by.

One Sunday morning ten years later, the original High School burned to the ground and those who during fifty years had been sheltered by its walls, often unwillingly, found how much they loved the old building. With little loss of time, the ruins were cleared away and the school which we occupy today was commenced. This, in less than a decade, is proving too small for our increasing school-family and more room must be added to accommodate it.

First log, then cobblestone, then clapboard, then brick. What will the next structure be? Perhaps in reading this little history you have been reminded, as has the writer, of that stanza of Holmes'—

“Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low-vaulted past!
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine out-grown shell by life's unresting sea!”

—Ethelwyn Dubuar Lapham.

Board of Education

This page of our high school annual is dedicated to the worthy members of our Board of Education. The Board have had at all times only the best interests of our school.

Every worthy improvement has had their sanction and support, and as a result the Northville High School stands today in the front rank of Michigan educational institutions. For the first time in the history of Northville our high school has been honored by being admitted to membership in the North Central Association of Secondary schools and Colleges. The increased prestige which our school has gained as a result of this recognition will do much for Northville.

The six members of the Student Council were elected last fall by the high school. Mr. Helfrich was chosen Supervisor.

The meetings have been held every Tuesday at 12:30 p. m. A number of the students were brought before the council for writing on desks, walls, etc., and for walking on the lawn. Credit must be given the Council for keeping people off the lawn.

The Council managed to buy all the athletic equipment, etc., to date, using the money taken in at the basket ball games and various school activities. There is still a substantial balance in the bank. At the end of the year the base ball and track goods will be paid for.

The Wild Rose

A crowd that filled the high school auditorium gathered Tuesday night, December 22, to witness the presentation of "The Wild Rose" by the girls' glee club. The operetta was a pleasing story set to catchy music and its presentation was very creditable and afforded an evening's entertainment that was greatly enjoyed. The costumes were pretty and the stage settings very attractive, reflecting credit upon those under whose direction the entertainment was given. The following young ladies formed the cast:

Rose McCloud	-	-	-	Marjorie Horan
Mary Forsythe	-	-	-	Marjorie Johnson
Mrs. Fussy	-	-	-	Naomia Colburn
Lady Grey	-	-	-	Hazel Hacking
Miss Writemup	-	-	-	Helen Hacking

Madame Sewseams	-	-	-	Kathryn Wilcox
Madame Feathertop	-	-	-	Vivian Taylor
Madame Smellsweet	-	-	-	Marguerite Warner
Bobbie	-	-	-	Madeline Cole
Maids—Elsie Schultz, Geraldine Huff, Margaret Stillwell, Violet Ludwig, Jessie Nelson, Gladys Ludwig, Dorothy Kili-ken, Caroline Keller, Edna Kreeger, Mildred Stanley, Edna Martens, Marjorie Schultz, Opal Brooks.

Colonial dances and exercises were presented by ten children from the Second grade and they did exceedingly well. Those taking part were Barbara Taft, Doris Helfrich, Frances Alexander, Ida Altman, Marjorie Hills, Robert Lyke, Thomas Carrington, Charles Strauss, James Harper and Teddy Yagel.

Little Ida Altman appeared in solo dances and she was greeted with hearty applause, and kindly responded with a second number.

Mrs. Ammerman of Belleville contributed two violin numbers to the program, which were much enjoyed. Mrs. Ammerman with the violin and Avis Brown at the piano were the accompanists and did their part very acceptibly.

The costumes were made under the direction of Miss Watson and the dancing was directed by Miss Oldaker.

Misses Irene Olson and Altha Yerkes directed the operetta.

Junior Play

Years may come, years may go, but Junior plays go on forever. Mr. Bob, a two-act comedy, was presented by the Junior Class of 1927, at the High School Auditorium. It was a bright and lively play, ingeniously constructed and full of comical situations.

The part of Mr. Bob or Marian Bryant was taken by Ruth Foreman; Philip Rayson, the nephew of Miss Luke, Carlyle Lovewell; Katherine Rogers, a niece of Miss Luke, Vivian Taylor; Miss Rebecca Luke, a maiden lady very much interested in cats, Irene Gotts; Mr. Brown, a clerk of Benson and Benson Co., Tom Woodbury; Jenkins, a very dignified butler, Lawrence LeFever; Patty, a maid, the "would-be" ballet dancer, Marguerite Warner.

Debate

The debate season of 1925-26 is one which should be considered an honor to Northville High School. While none of our debaters were veterans, we were able to enter the elimination series for the state championship. The subject for debate during the past year was: Resolved that the Child Labor Amendment be adopted. The affirmative team composed of Ruth Biery, Russell Atchison, and Lynn Partridge, started the season with a victory which, of course, encouraged the team. The season for the affirmative was closed with a defeat, but still N. H. S. was undaunted.

The negative team composed of Margaret Safford, Russell Atchison and Carlyle Lovewell, was very successful and won the two negative debates. This was probably due to the delivery and excellent constructive arguments well known to our school. We were able to enter the elimination contest and there was displayed Northville High's real talent for debating. The success of the team was due to the excellent coaching and untiring effort of Miss Aletha Yerkes, who never failed us. Northville will have veterans next year and hopes to make a more brilliant showing.

N. H. S. Football

1925-26

Northville High School started practice as soon as school began. Coach Miller gave out suits the day after classification.

The first game came September eighteenth, giving us only a few days for practice. When the nineteenth arrived we had a team composed of light but fairly fast players, five of whom had had experience last year.

The first game with Grosse Pointe was won by a 6-0 score. N. H. S. team, (using no passes or trick plays) played nothing but straight football.

The second game came at the Fair. Northville seemed to have nothing but bad luck with all the good luck going to Plymouth. The game was lost 16-2.

Ferndale was our third opponent of the season. In this game we were out-weighted by about ten pounds to a man. N. H. S. was not too hopelessly defeated by weight, and at the end of the half the score was 6-6. Our only touchdown was made by Casterline. The N. H. S. team, fighting to the last minute, lost the game 13-6.

The most interesting game of the season was the scoreless tie game at Wayne. All the boys seemed to enjoy themselves making pretty dives and five and ten yard dashes in the beautiful little lake of mud.

In the game with Farmington we again seemed to pick the wrong day and there were fine little streams of water running on the field. Mud was only about one inch deep this time. At Wayne the mud was about six or eight inches deep, but we succeeded in defeating Farmington 24-0. Casterline made three touchdowns and Stage one.

The last three games were played with Belleville, Dearborn and Redford. All three games were lost; however the sport of a game is not in winning, but in clean sportsmanship. Even if we did not win a cup, we still have a record of clean sportsmanship and fair play.

Aside from furnishing the first team with scrimmage practice, the reserves scored a moral victory over the Plymouth reserves and thoroughly trimmed the Wayne second team.

Although limited to only four games last season, the reserves showed a fine spirit, and they will undoubtedly play a big part in the football season of 1926.

The games played were with Redford, Wayne and Plymouth.

Basket Ball

1925-26

Northville started to practice basketball about three weeks before the first game, which came on the eleventh of December. After spending the three weeks in hard practice on the main principles of basketball, the team was ready for their first game.

The trip to St. Johns was anticipated as one of the best trips of the season. There the second team played first, and although they put up a good fight, they lost. The first team was successful in winning their game which was an encouragement for Northville.

That night the members of both teams were entertained in the homes of St. Johns' boys.

Fowlerville was the next stop. The game that night did not come out so well for Northville as at St. Johns, since it was lost by a score of 23 to 18. The team arrived home safely with fourteen players, two white rats and without any serious trouble.

The next seventeen games played gave Northville but six defeats, consequently the team entered the tournament at Ann Arbor with high hopes. There by defeating Roosevelt and Lincoln High Schools of Ypsilanti, a silver cup was won and Northville was qualified to enter the Ypsilanti tournament. In this tournament the first game was won, but the second was lost to Eaton Rapids. The team played its best in all the games of the season, and deserves hearty congratulations for the honor brought to Northville High school.

Girls' Basket Ball

1925-26

This year has been a rather disappointing year for our girl athletes; at the first of the year the girls showed considerable interest in basket ball; there were a lot out to practice and they seemed to dig in and do their very best; but when it came to the league question, the clouds covered the sun, for the girls' league was voted down with a three to two decision. However, the girls kept on with their practice and won their first game at Tecumseh. There were only three games lost this year and not one was lost by more than three points. The first was at Birmingham, the second, at Fordson, and the third, at Plymouth. We had return games with two out of the three and won both.

We lost two of our best players last year, but there were some capable girls to put in their places. Ruth Sessions, the new forward, made an exceptionally good partner for our other forward, Geraldine Huff. Their team work was splendid; and when they got their hands on the ball, you were sure of a basket. Vena Austin, our new guard, was a good partner for Madeline Lauray, the other guard. Vena was very quick, and kept her eye on the ball every minute. Our team was greatly noted for its team work. The ball was passed from one player to another without stopping and when it reached the forwards, a pivot, bounce, and the ball is in the basket. Marjorie Horan, our captain and jumping center was one that cannot be surpassed. No center on an opposing team could out jump "Marge". Luella Riley, our side center, is another that cannot be beaten. She worked like lightning and was especially good at team work.

Last year the total amount of points made for us was 368, while this year it was 380; and the total last year for our opponents was 199, while this year it was 179. This shows an increase for us and a decrease for our opponents. Although we have not increased as much as they have decreased, we have shown an immense improvement since last year. Our highest score last year was 49; this year, 70. Our lowest score last year was 7; this year, 20; and on the whole we played better teams this year.

Our new coach, Miss Oldaker, worked faithfully with us and we with her. The girls all like her pleasing and jolly inspiration. She always had a smile when a smile was most needed, and her splendid coaching gave us victory from start to finish. We all hope she will be with us again next year and lead us on to further victory.

The graduating class of this year takes away three of our very best players: Marjorie Horan, Luella Riley, and Madeline Lauray. We greatly regret having to part with them and hope that there will be some able players to take their places next year.

GIRLS' TRACK 1925

Track has been voted away from the girls this year too, much to their disappointment; so there is nothing to look forward to. Last year, however, we had an excellent track team. We came home with the highest honors.

With the exception of the relay, Marjorie Horan took first in every event that she entered and won the individual cup. Her entries were the 100 yd. dash, 50 yd. dash, and the high jump. She has been our star athlete for the past four years and we do not want to part with her.

Other girls who won honors in the meet are: Madeline Lauray, Lucile Wickam, and Geraldine Huff. Madeline won second in shot put, Lucile won second in the 50 yd. dash, and Geraldine won first in the broad jump and third in the shot put. We won second in the relay with the following girls running: Luella Riley, Geraldine Huff, Lucile Wickham, and Marjorie Horan.

Thus for the first time Northville was given the cup. This greatly pleased the girls, for they felt that they had finally been paid for their hard practice.

Baseball

ALEC MILNE, Capt.

The crack of ash against horse hide sounds through the spring air. Baseball is again under way at Northville High School.

With the loss by graduation of quite a number of players, the process of building a new team is rather difficult. But Coach Brainard should prove equal to the task. Practice was started about two weeks late, because of the weather; however, the team is quickly rounding into shape. To date we have lost two games and won none—which means that the team has an uphill battle. The following players are trying out this year: L. LeFever, O. Atchinson, D. Campbell, R. Lyke, A. Milne, C. Fry, A. Kohler, T. Watts, W. Banfield, D. Herrick, D. Rathburn, N. Atchinson, R. Smith, and J. Leavenworth.

As the season is just beginning, it is hard to tell what our team will do, but we feel confident that it will do its best to win the cup for Northville.

Track

Coach—A. K. Miller

A tense, eager line of youths, eagerly awaiting the word "Go"! Thus starts the track season of "26" at N. H. S. An active group of "thin clads," is busy high jumping, broad jumping, pole vaulting and practicing all the other events of track and field.

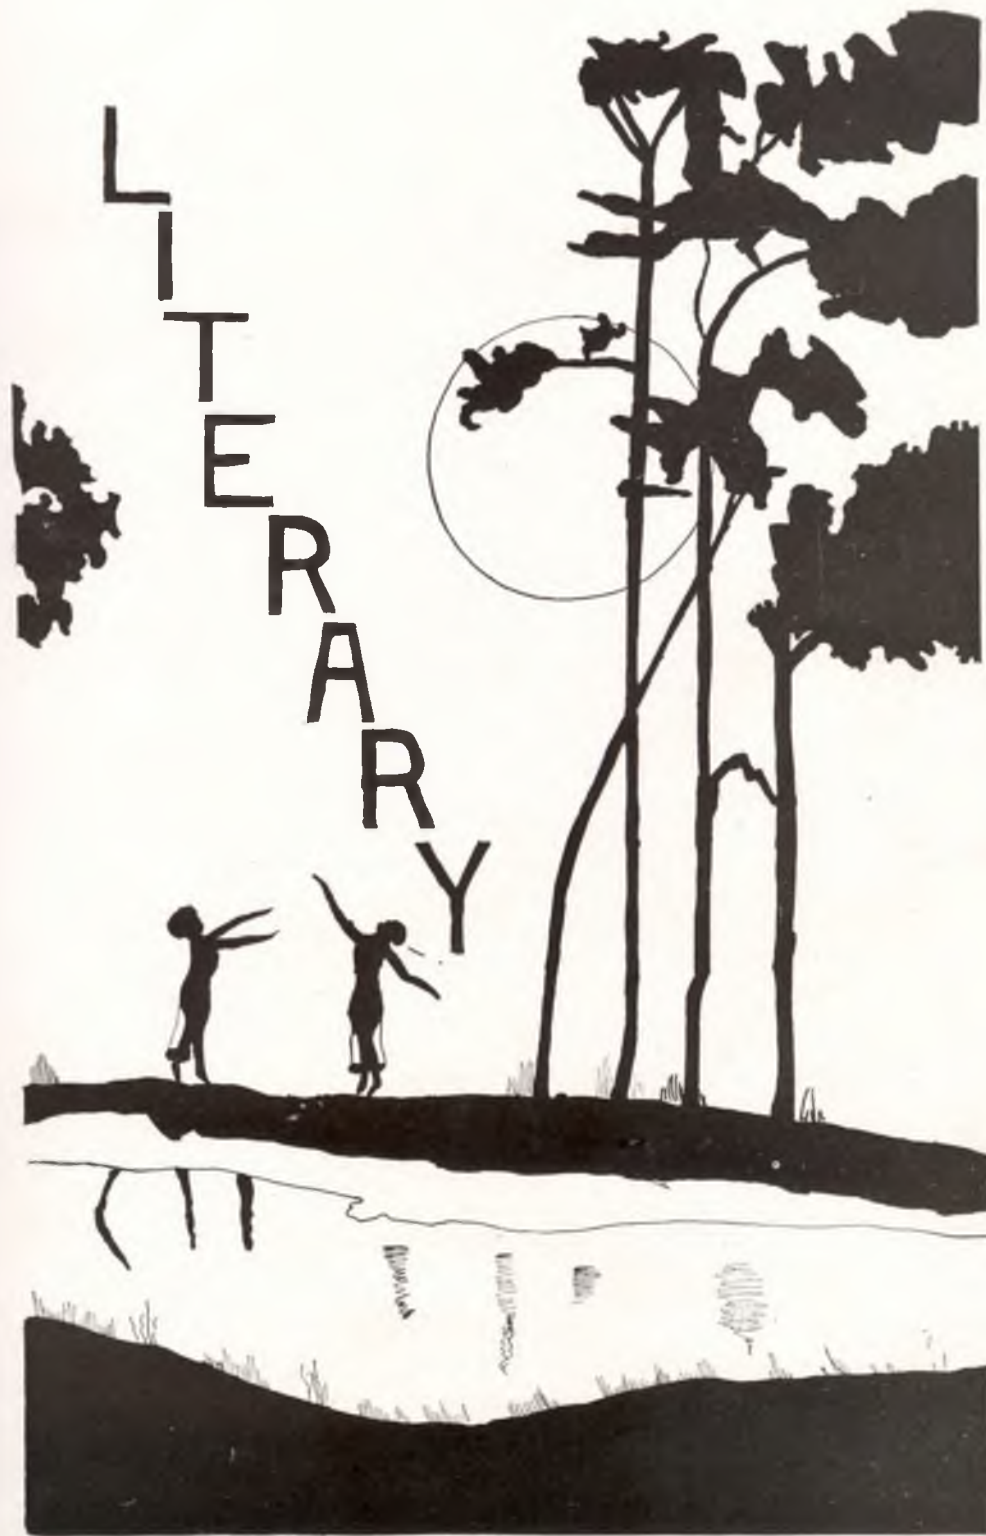

The season will open with the usual inter-class track meet on April 28. Mr. McClintock, one of the jewelers of Northville, is offering a silver cup to the winning team, and all teams are working very hard to win it.

It is too early to say anything as to the members of the team, but we know they will be capable of the duty thrust upon them of representing our school.

In Memoriam

HARRY HINMAN CLASS OF 1928
Born December 29, 1910—Died March 26, 1926

“Go the Winds”

Wandering through many strange lands,
Over hill and dale you roam,
Obeying only “One Master”,
With the whole wide world as your home.

Screaming 'cross snow bound prairies,
Sweeping all from your path,
Roaring through canyons of ice
And threatening all in your wrath.

Now whispering to some lonely pine,
And then in less than a trice
Lazily floating through Bagdad,
Laden with scent of the spice.

Skiping o'er white capped rollers
And juggling boats in your glee,
Playing at tag with the gulls,
As you laughingly dance o'er the sea.

O, carrier of rains and snow,
And whatever else you may be,
You wander wherever you will,
Wild, unshackled and free.

Mystery Night

While I was visiting my aunt a short time ago in a certain little Canadian town, I had a little experience with mystery that I would not like to go through again.

My aunt is a wan and haggard old lady, with a queer smile that plays about her lips most of the time. The more you observe her, the more you are impressed with the feeling that there is something uncanny and mysterious about her.

She gave me my first reception with a pistol in her hand, but immediately upon recognizing me, she exclaimed, in a relieved tone, "Oh! It's you is it, nephew?" (She never called me by my christian name.) "Yes, it is I, auntie," I replied. "And why the pistol?" "Sh-h-h," she cautioned. "Not so loud, they might be listening." "Who, auntie, you, me?" I asked, bewildered. "What do you mean?" It seemed as if a cold wave of horror had swept over me. "Here, have a chair," she insisted, "I'll get supper ready." We ate in silence.

It was about eight o'clock when she asked me if I should mind if she went to the village to see a sick friend. "No," I replied, "I do not mind in the least." In about five minutes she had gone. I was now at liberty to inspect the place at leisure. The whole house was very meagerly furnished. One thing that struck me as rather queer was the fact that there was a number of modern rifles, revolvers and knives hung in a loosely made gun cabinet. If it were to be judged by appearances, my aunt must surely have been expecting a raid from the Ku Klux Klan.

Having satisfactorily looked everything over, I went back to the living room, picked out the easiest chair I could find, and proceeded to bury my nose in a book. The next time I looked up was when I was startled into doing so by the clock's striking twelve. Surely the three hours during which I had been reading must have taken wings and flown away.

Just then my attention was attracted by the sound of a closing door upstairs. The clock hand seemed to have slid by a half hour more, for just then it struck the half hour. The long drawn out howl of a coyote came from the nearby wood.

Then I became aware of a light tapping at the window. I dared not look toward it. What form would be revealed there? My back was turned to the door. Just then it opened with a slight creak. I could hear no one enter. Hark!! Was it whispers I heard upstairs? Muffled footsteps, a cry-more whispers. I happened to remember that my aunt had placed her revolver in the table drawer at my side. Noiselessly I reached over and pulled out the drawer. A hand was placed on my shoulders. "Don't," came the hideously voiced command. In terror I glanced up and beheld nothing. The hand remained. Struggling from its grasp, I seized the gun and pointing it to the ceiling pulled the trigger. A click rewarded my effort. Doomsday had surely arrived. I heard a mocking laugh close by; then the door closed.

This was more than my constitution could stand. I wrote a note as fast as my agitation would permit, telling my aunt that I could not stay, for I had had a sudden attack of heart trouble. I then bade the accursed house farewell and bolted for the front door which seemed to open and close for me of its own free will. As I ran toward the street I again felt the hand on my shoulder. I seemed to stumble and fall, but as I struck the ground I woke up to find my aunt shaking me and insisting that I go to bed, for I had dropped off to sleep while reading and my imagination had been running loose through my sleep. I went to bed and enjoyed a restful sleep for the remainder of the night.

As for my aunt's air of uncanniness, I discovered the next day that it came from her long years of life alone, which had made her suspicious and nervous. Concerning the remainder of my visit, I can only say that I thoroughly enjoyed it.

—Kalman Haray.

“Memories”

Just forget the bitter reality
And drift away for awhile,
Into sweet dreams of yesterday
That bring a lingering smile.

'Member the old swimming hole
Where swimming always was fun?
The swirling and eddying stream
Where fish dart and flash in the sun?

'Member one time we played hookey
And got such a licking next day?
'Member the days in the hay loft
Where we played in the sweet smelling hay?

To conquer the thing called Life,
We set out one day, to do,
But now I can see, Old Pal,
Those dreams could never come true.

Now we're most through, Old Pal,
With care and worry and strife,
So let's drift away into memories,
And just float away from this life.

—Tom Woodbury.

The Christmas Spirit

The true Christ spirit of brotherly love
Is a beautiful gift that's sent from above;
It's often been said, "It comes once a year,
That Christmas spirit of joy and good cheer."
But why can't we make it shine out every day?
Let's try it and see if we can't make it pay!

—Tom Woodbury

Graduation

While through years of school we labored,
Always working never favored;
Ever through our soul was running
Music of those glad days coming,
When our graduation day is here.

Now 'tis here and ours the pleasure.
Before us set our lives whole measures.
To fill it, we must do the drilling.
Realize, my friends, the thrilling
Of ambition in you born.

Let respect for Justice guide you.
Lead not shame and sin beside you,
Trust not all that looks like gold,
For such, the souls of men are sold,
And cast into eternal fire.

Thus, 'tis said, do authors babble,
For me 'tis not to join the rabble
Of the famous men and writers
And unnumbered world delighters,
That with time have passed before us.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

The third annual Junior-Senior Banquet was held at the High School Gym on the evening of June 10, 1925, at 6:30 o'clock.

The following menu was served:

Fruit Salad				Wafers
Pressed Meat				Creamed Potatoes
		Rolls	Jelly
Pickles	Ice Cream	Coffee	Cake	Olives

The Toastmaster, Supt. A. J. Helfrich, gave a short talk, after which Avis Brown entertained with a piano solo. Then the President of the Junior Class, Delbert Campbell, gave the address of welcome, which was answered by Ida Rose Cavell, president of the Senior class. Miss Alban then favored with a violin solo.

After the banquet the Class Night exercises were presented in the Auditorium.

FRESHMAN AND SOPHOMORE ANNUAL STUNT NIGHT

The annual stunt night of the Freshmen and Sophomores was held on October 20, 1925. It was very well attended by the students of N. H. S. and the townspeople. Of course, both sides wanted to win, which was to be expected. Several games were played, such as, snake, running races and one very clever clothes race which was won by the Freshmen. The boys had a wrestling match which was intensely exciting owing to the fact that Mr. Brainard and Mr. Miller got slightly mixed up in the fray, but it was finally straightened out and the real match began. Our hero, Ted Watts, did his part well by hauling off three men as his share of the match.

The hurdles were amusing because some of the boys were a trifle larger than the hurdles and had a hard time getting through them.

Del Campbell suggested that Jack Marburger and John McCann propose to Elsie Martens and Doris Teshka. Someone else was clever enough to ask Alec Modos to sing America, which he did after much coaxing on the part of the Sophomore girls. It was voted upon by the students and decided that they would send him to the Northville Conservatory of Music. Norman Atchinson was requested to do the Charleston for us with Gladys Ludwig, a request which was very gracefully carried out.

On account of an unlucky slip made by the Freshmen in the snake race, the honors went to the Sophomores who received a score of 90 to the Freshmen's 71. This ended the very strenuous evening. Then according to school tradition the Freshman class served a banquet to the Sophomores.

HALLOWE'EN MASQUE

The annual Hallowe'en Masque was held on the evening of October 30, 1925. The gym was artistically decorated in orange and black and at first sight appeared to be a sea of streamers. Cornstalks and pumpkins added to the spookiness of the atmosphere and also provided a nest for the musicians, Perkins' Orchestra. Doughnuts and cider were served as refreshments.

FREAK DAY

The day of all days, Freak Day, was held on October twenty-third, nineteen hundred twenty-six. On this day the Student Council decided that the Freshmen must dress like freaks. Several of the comic strip characters, a famous comedian, Aunt Heppy; a bold pirate, a Chinaman, several flappers, farmers, children and great great grandmothers—these were only a few of the famous people.

In the originality of costume, Paris had nothing on us. For they were so pleasing to the eye that the Student Council thought the Freshmen had better march around the assembly room. This was greatly appreciated by the Freshmen.

The upper classmen felt it their duty to make the day one never to be forgotten, which they certainly did, by making the victims pay honor to them by bowing to everyone they met. Thus ended the never-to-be-forgotten day.

FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE BANQUET

November fifth, nineteen hundred twenty-five, the Freshmen class gave a banquet in honor of the Sophomores. The guests of honor included the Student Council and High School teachers. In the center of the room stood a table well decorated with green crepe paper. At the head of the table stood the red plush chair of honor elaborately decorated. It was occupied by Delbert Campbell, president of the Student Council.

The following menu was served:

Escaloped Potatoes	Meat Loaf
Buttered Rolls	Pickles
Cake	Cocoa
	Ice Cream

The banquet was followed by two basket ball games. The Freshman and Sophomore girls followed by the Freshman and Sophomore boys. A very enjoyable evening was had by all (except dish-washers).

THE SOPHOMORE SLEIGH-RIDE PARTY

The first great social event of the Sophomore class, was the sleigh-ride party held on the evening of Wednesday, January 13. At 6:30 P. M., Mr. Montgomery and his sleigh were out in front of the school, ready for the thirty members of the class, who piled in the sleigh. All were appropriately dressed for the occasion, in splendid humor, and well prepared for a jolly good time. At 8:30 P. M., we were back in Northville and stopped at the school for refreshments, which consisted of sandwiches and pickles, jello, cake and cocoa, furnished by the members of the class. The combination of a jolly crowd and an ideal winter evening, was almost an assurance of an enjoyable time. We knew everyone had enjoyed himself by the way they shouted and sang all the way home.

Miss Aletha Yerkes, and Miss Evelyn Harr, were two splendid chaperons, for such a happy and boisterous class as the Sophomores.

ADVANCED NUTRITION CLASS ENTERTAINS FACULTY

On January 19, 1926, the Advanced Nutrition Class under the supervision of Miss Watson, served a 6:30 dinner to the ten Senior High School faculty members. The menu consisted of the following:

Fruit Cocktail
Mushroom Loaf with Asparagus Sauce
Parsley Potatoes Stuffed Baked Peppers
Olives Salad Rolls
Strawberry Bavarian Creme
Coffee

The dinner was wholly a class project, as all the plans were made and carried out by the class members.

Much credit is due Miss Watson and the students for the admirable way in which the dinner was handled. It was the first project of its kind and the faculty sincerely hope it will not be the last.

SENIOR CHRISTMAS PARTY

The first event on the Senior's social calendar was the Christmas party held on the evening of December 21, 1925. When dinner was announced at 7:00 o'clock, we tramped into the lunch-room in merry confusion and tried to find our places. (By the way, we would like to know just who did arrange those places).

The tables were prettily decorated in red and green, and each place had a small favor. After we were all seated, the following menu was served.

Chicken Fricassee Rolls Mashed Potatoes
Pickles Cream Cheese Olives
Ice Cream Jello Salad Cake Cocoa

After the hilarious dinner, during which Miss Oldaker and Miss Harr begged, borrowed or stole, all the olives in sight, Santy came. He gave us all presents among which were several snakes that caused a riot among the females.

We then went into the gym, and spent the remainder of the evening enjoying ourselves as only Seniors can.

THE FRESHMAN PARTY

On March 22, 1926, the Freshman Class decided that it was about time to have another party. Every Freshman was asked to invite one person.

Several games were played, including a Charleston contest, which was won by Jessie Austen and Charles Ely, Charles receiving the most applause as usual. (He would make a very good partner for Bessie Love, the talented movie Charleston dancer). It is quite evident that he practices in the back yard. A very exciting game of musical chairs resulted in the victory for our famous Home Economics teacher, Miss Carolyn Watson.

Previous to the party the most exclusive apartment stores in the city of Northville were visited, and it was decided that our order for the prizes would be given to the mammoth Woodworth Emporium.

Two members of the party furnished a very delightful assortment of syncopated jazz for the amusement and violent exercise of the remainder of the party.

After a very hearty and delightful dinner (everyone attending the party was at school the next day), about seven of the class including Miss Hoag, our chaperon, did their daily dozen over the dish-pan, thus ending the most formal and expensive party of the year.

THE FRENCH PARTY

Another novel event of the season was the French party which the Second Year students gave the First Year students. We aroused much curiosity by the French notices we posted previous to the party.

We held our party in Miss Watson's room and no one was allowed to speak English. We learned French songs and played French games which we found to be similar to ours only much noisier, owing to the fact that Miss Harr and Miss Oldaker were slightly exuberant.

At 10:00 o'clock we tuned in on radio station WJZ which was broadcasting a French program. We ate our refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cookies, while listening to the radio. At 10:30 (being a school night) we parted, each one agreeing that it was the best party he had ever attended.

GIRLS' BASKET BALL PARTY

At the end of the Basket Ball sseason, Coach Oldaker gave the girls of the first and second teams a party.

Any one witnessing the party might think us back in the kindergarten as we were all dressed as youngsters.

In honor of our mascot "Felix", we were given names of cats to go by and divided into teams to compete in a series of crazy events. The winning team was presented with a cup bearing the words "State Chumps." The cup was on exhibition the following day at the High School Auditorium and any one privileged to see it was considered lucky.

The refreshments (to match the rest of the party) consisted of ice cream cones, cookies, and lollipops.

We are greatly indebted to Miss Oldaker for the trouble and work she had to do to enable her to give the party. We all agree that there was never a party quite like it, or one we enjoyed more.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET

The Father and Son Banquet was one of the successful affairs of the school calendar. The tables were prettily decorated and the menu well served. The souvenirs added to the general enjoyment of the dinner, while the music furnished by an orchestra from Detroit lent spirit to the occasion. Miss June Filkins, accompanied by Guy Filkins, sang several solos for which there was hearty applause. The community singing was led by Mr. Carl Bryan.

Dr. P. R. Alexander, as chairman of the evening, introduced the toastmaster, Mr. R. A. Brooks, who in turn introduced the speaker, Mr. Louis J. Riemner of Ann Arbor, whose interesting talk was very much enjoyed.

J. HOP

The J. Hop was one of the most enjoyable events of the season, being held on the evening of April 23, 1925. The decorations were in yellow and white with the streamers stretched from the running track to a small ring high above the center of the floor. Under the ring was a huge yellow bow with long streamers which dangled tantalizingly just out of the dancers' reach.

The music was furnished by Patterson's orchestra and not many remained seated after they had heard the first number.

Delicious lime punch was served and the popularity of the punch table was rivalled only by that of the cozy corners.

BOYS' ALUMNI BANQUET 1966

Come gather 'round the table, boys,
It's been a long time since we met;
But though the years have taken their toll,
We still are classmates yet.

There are vacant chairs set here and there,
But memory fills the spaces;
And in those chairs it bids us see
Dear old familiar faces.

There's Delbert Campbell, Well, Old
Top!
It sure seems good to see
Your grey old head and wrinkled phiz
Across the board from me.

And Harry White! Well, I'll be bound.
As shiekish now as ever;
His shoes all shined, his hair slicked
back,
And bow tie on as clever.

And Arthur Schultz, Hie, there old
Art!
How's everything with you?
How are the wife and seven kids
And all the neighbors too?

Why, Bennie Chargo, is that you?
Stick out your paw, old man!
Its nigh on now to forty years
Since last I shook that hand.

It sure seems good to see you all.
But look! Well, I'll be darned,
If there ain't Cecil Fry, the crook!
Come, Cece, give us your yarn.

Now, who is that tall white-haired man?

His name has slipped my mind.
A lawyer from Detroit you say?
Why sure! That's old Clyde Caster-line.

And Albert Kohler big and fat,
A bachelor now quite gray,
And Virginia married another guy?
The heck! The deuce! You say.

Kalmon Haray has been abroad,
Is now a master violinist.
He used to saw a bit at school
But his chances then seemed of the slimest.

That care encumbered man you see,
That seems almost afraid to tarry,
Is Albert Stage, the poor old man,
They say his wife is sure some Berry.

Raymond Elliott was a good old scout,
And what an attentive beau he made;
Would always escort Bessie Mae about,
Regardless of his passing grade.

Old Lynn Fraser is a butcher,
Was always a bashful young man;
Couldn't find a peach to pair off with,
So is now paring off the ham.

And last but not least let me mention
Our good old friend Stubenvall.
He always was keen on athletics,
Is now a world star at baseball.

Well boys we've come from far and near,
 To laugh, to think, to mix,
 To recall once more the good old days
 Of the class of '26.

So now lets give three grand, good
 rahs,
 For N. H. S. so fair,
 And then let's bow our heads in thanks
 While Rev. Fraser leads in prayer.

INSPIRATION

'Twas an hour before class time,
 Not a word could I find
 That would have any sense
 And yet properly rhyme.

I thought of the mountains;
 I thought of the hills;
 Of fairies and flowers;
 Of ponds and the mills.

But my mind would not function;
 Thoughts wouldn't embark
 And sail out to the harbor
 Where I'd find a good mark.

Just then my eyes turned
 Toward the front of the room,
 And there sat the teacher,
 All huddled in gloom,

Perched high on the platform
 Like a bird in a tree.
 I smiled and I smiled
 But she couldn't see me.

My thoughts returned
 From that harbor abroad,
 And seemed to bring with them
 The fresh dew of the sod.

They were not so muddled
 And scattered afar;
 Nor were they as dim
 As the far northern star.

But these stars seemed to gather
 As if by a magnet,
 And to the large platform
 My thoughts were attracted.

So I took out my pencil
 And started to write,
 But I've got this far and
 Ain't it some sight?

—Ed. Horton

Aggie Riley: Say, did you ever take chloroform?

M. Horan: Naw! Who teaches It?

'Way back in the '80's the Board of Education was nothing but a pine shingle.

A. Yerkes: Harry, what part of speech is nose?

"Salem": You can't fool me, teacher. You don't speak with your nose, you speak with your mouth.

Clyde C.: Howdjuh get the flat tire, Stage?

Stage: Ran over a bottle.

Clyde: How come, couldn'tcha see ut?

Stage: Naw, the guy had it in his hip-pocket.

Why do authors always say "a smile crept over her face?"

Because if it went any faster it would kick up a dust.

The main difference between a chewing gum and a cow chewing it's cud is that the cow generally looks thoughtful.

Brick S.: Bought a new car yesterday.

"Cowboy" B.: What kind?

Brick: It's an Ash.

"Cowboy": You mean Nash don't you?

Brick: No—Ash—Second hand Cole.

Howdy, old top, new car?

No, old car, new top.

Kind old lady to wounded soldier: My poor man, did a shell explode and hit you?

Soldier: Naw, lady, it crept up and bit me.

"Beaner" went into Helfrich's office like a roaring lion but he came out like a postage stamp.

Howzat?

Licked.

Mrs. Larkins: What are you doing, Albert.

Killett: Nothing.

Mrs. Larkins: What are you doing, Irwin?

"Zip" Sibley: Helping Killett.

THE SPIRIT OF PROGRESS

Architects, Builders, Contractors—all who are engaged on construction work—are keenly alive to the spirit of the times. Methods that were in vogue but a comparatively few years ago are discarded for other and better ways of doing the same things.

This "spirit of progress" is the keynote of the success of our business. You will find us keenly alive to your needs and prompt to serve you with the very latest and best in Hardware, Plumbing, Heating, and Tinning.

Mr. Laughran: Partridge, what's a complementary angle?

Partridge: I dunno.

Mr. Laughran: I suppose you think it's something you give away!

Mr. Brainard: Can you prove that a square on the hypotenuse is equal to the sum of the square of two sides of this triangle.

Luella Riley: I don't have to prove it.

Brainard: Why?

L. Riley: I admit it.

John Leavenworth (after an absent spree) Did they play cards in the stone age?

Marjorie: Did they? Say, clubs are trump.

Mr. Brainard wrote the following criticism on a boy's report card: "A good worker but talks too much."

The card was returned with the following: "You should hear his mother."

Arthur Schultz: What do you think of flappers as a rule?

Lynn Fraser: Not very good ones to follow.

Maurice Lapham: "I'm doing odd jobs to help go to Washigton with the Seniors.

Lady of the House: Very well, you may singe the cat's whiskers, massage the snake's hips and rouge the bees knees. Those are odd jobs.

These Students Won University Scholarships

University scholarships of $1,000 each have been awarded to these five participants in the Union Trust Company's third annual essay contest:

Paul Millard Sheldon, 3969 Porter Avenue, Western High School, who has selected Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio; Marguerite Wellman, 293 Piper Boulevard, Southeastern High School, who has selected University of Michigan, Ann Arbor; Alice Mort, 53 Henry Street, River Rouge High School, who selected Michigan State College, East Lansing; Esther Pryor, 4247 Iroquois Avenue, Eastern High School, who selected University of Michigan, and Helen Barrett Creek, 1792 Seward Avenue, St. Leo High School, who has selected St. Mary's College of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Ind.

The judges were Dean S. S. Marquis, Rabbi Leo M. Franklin and the Rev. Monsignor Patrick Dunigan, Flint.

These five contestants were named as first alternates: Lora Winifred Standish, 1975 Leslie Avenue, Northern High School; Ruth Marion Henning, 771 Military Avenue, Southwestern High School; J. Perry Simmons, 3802 Whitney Avenue, Northwestern High School; Wilbur Steininger, 1432 Putnam Avenue, Central High School, and Nathan Joseph Abodahen, 3301 Seventeenth Street, St. Vincent's Parochial High School.

Those receiving second alternate awards are: Etol Sapovich, 4809 Porath street, Fordson High School; Jeanette Ripley, Wayne High School, Wayne, Michigan; Marion E. Shaw, Armada High School, Armada, Mich.; Max Newman, 1658 Lee Place, Cass Technical High School; and Andrew Patrick Phillips, 1636 Gladstone Avenue, St. Agnes Parochial High School.

Each of the 10 alternates receives a silver loving cup, and in the event a scholarship winner does not avail himself of the scholarship he is replaced by an alternate. The winners get certificates of award and the alternates certificates of merit. Certificates of honorable mention have been awarded to nine other contestants whose essays were among the last to be eliminated. The nine are:

Samuel Gordon, 6069 Northfield avenue, High School of Commerce; George R. Koseff, 951 Frederick avenue east, Northeastern High School; Royal Charles Dickinson, 2478 Andrus Avenue, Hamtramck High School; Charles Moyer, 160 Woodland avenue, Highland Park High School; Esther Kuenne, 203 South Broad street, Holly, Mich., Holly High School; Hamilton Pratt Easton, 35 Henderson street, Pontiac High School; Geraldine Mary Felix, 3805 Carter avenue, St. Theresa Parochial School; M. Elizabeth Campbell, 318 West Grand boulevard, St. Ann's Parochial School; and Robert William Manning, 5707 Second boulevard, University of Detroit High School.
